

AZ Anti-Trump Protester: 'Make America Mexico Again'

SIGN UP FOR OUR NEWSLETTER

An anti-Trump protester in Arizona held up a "Make America Mexico Again" sign as anti-Trump agitators demonstrated ahead of Trump's Saturday visit to the Grand Canyon State.

One #TrumpAZ protester said "Fates of minorities matter. Our nation needs to be open to diversity."

— Cronkite News (@cronkitenews) 2:16 PM - 18 Jun 2016

The agitators also inflated a Trump KKK balloon and put up a "Make America Hate Again" sign at the demonstration. The inflatables were reportedly donated to the pro-amnesty group that organized the protest.

Anti-trump protesters brought visuals to their rally! #Trump #trumpaz

— Michael Chow (@photochowder) 12:47 PM - 18 Jun 2016

The last time Trump was in Arizona, anti-Trump agitators and pro-amnesty advocates blocked a highway and even chained themselves to cars to prevent Trump supporters from attending his rally. After Trump's Tuscon rally in March, anti-Trump agitators taunted and threatened Trump supporters as they entered and left the venue.

A Tuscon police officer who attended the event as a private citizen said though he felt safe around Trump's supporters, he did not feel safe around the anti-Trump agitators, whom he called "the most hateful, evil people he has ever seen."

The Lion's Guard bikers group has vowed to protect Trump's supporters during his Saturday event in Phoenix.